Grabbing the Headlines

It is no secret that technology is changing the real estate market for good. Leading this change is OliveHomes.com, a new agency with substantial experience. Let's meet the owner and find out more about OliveHomes.com and how it can make life so much easier for the buyer and seller - virtually!

David Rowat, proud to be leading OliveHomes.com

David Rowat – Background

David is extremely well known in the Portuguese property market. He has been at the forefront of progressive development within the sector since 2004, when he arrived in Portugal. Prior to this he spent his early career within the banking and finance industry in the UK. During his time in Portugal he has helped thousands of clients realise their dream of purchasing property in Portugal, either as an investment or a holiday home. From the green coast of Porto, the silver coast of Nazaré, the blue coast of Lisbon and down to the popular destination of the Algarve, David has advised, recommended, and matched endless homes to their new owners. Not only does he have the knowledge and expertise of every part of the real estate sector, he is also a firm believer in having a team and working ethos that provides an exceptional service conducted in a friendly, collaborative manner. We asked him to give us his views on OliveHomes.com and what makes him tick.

What made you start OliveHomes.com?

Having been employed in the industry since 2004 I've become addicted to the pleasures it generates. When I worked in the bank, it always felt that however hard you worked, the end result was either unhappiness or, at best, satisfaction. I knew when I arrived in Portugal I wanted a role that absorbed the sun, that appreciated these lands and gave me immense positivity. After an initial period of teaching English (sorry for those with a Bristolian accent!), I was approached to work in Real Estate. From that moment I knew it was what I wanted to do. After several years working for an international firm I knew the time was right to make my mark on the industry and became self-employed in 2008. OliveHomes.com is a culmination of the vast experience I've accumulated over the years. The company will give tremendous service to clients and provide cheerful memories for staff. To sum it all up, I started Olivehomes.com to see achievement, results and complete happiness for all.
