Algarve, Portugal – April 2, 2025 — After four successful years at the helm of OliveHomes.com, Managing Director David Rowat and Operations Director Monica Cozacenco have announced they will be stepping back slightly from the day-to-day operations of the company. Both will continue to play an active role as "Founding Directors", ensuring continuity and support as the company enters an exciting new chapter.

In a statement, David Rowat shared his enthusiasm about the company's leadership evolution:

"It's with great pleasure I announce the appointment of Jamie O'Doherty as Sales Director, Mihaela Silva as Operations Director, and last but not least, Colin Hayle as Marketing Director. I have every confidence that they will drive the company forward and continue to give our vendors and clients the best care and honest advice that we have become renowned for in the industry. We're proud to pass the torch to a team who will uphold our values and continue to grow our mission. We both wish them all the best in their new roles."

The newly appointed directors also issued a joint statement:

"This is a great step forward for OliveHomes.com. All three of us are committed to upholding the values that David and Monica established—integrity, care, and professionalism—while pushing the company to new heights.
