Feira de São Martinho - Portimão

The fair of Saint Martin is said to celebrate the doing of good deeds. It started in 1662 and is said to remind people that good deeds are not forgotten. We love the sound of that!

It is traditional to eat the roasted chestnuts which the fair is famous for, as well as to drink the first of the year's wine, called Magusto!! Sounds better and better!

There are fair ground rides, such as bumper cars, big wheel and many more, entertainment for kids, street food stalls, selling the usual Portuguese fare and those lovely chestnuts!

Stalls selling anything from shoes, leather goods, and clothes to toys and local handmade arts and crafts.

Time to have some fun this weekend.

You can join in all the fun this weekend in Portimão, at the Parque de Feiras e Exposições de Portimão, the official day of São Martinho is today the 11th November.

See you there!
